Have you ever wanted to visit Ireland? How would you like to live there? You'll feel like you do when these 60 short stories transport you to this spectacularly beautiful island nation. You will travel to picturesque places, sometimes along single track roads with centuries old hedgerows defining your way. You'll drink in the forty shades of green that Ireland is famous for, while working up a thirst to down a pint or two of the black stuff or maybe a shandy. Not only will you get great local color, you'll gather essential information about golfing in Ireland-from the trophy linksland courses to the magical hidden gems. If you love to travel, this book will inspire you to experience the rich Irish culture yourself. "Taba Dale has a natural, clear style of writing that brings the Emerald Isle to life with love and passion. It is rare when a writer possesses the ability to convey not only a story effectively and convincingly, but also gives the reader deep insight into the psyche of the writer. A joyful read...a travelogue of a truly magical land." - Rod Drought
