God's Olympics McKenzie Fenn

This group study for children looks at five character traits of the Christian life, using some of the sports from the summer Olympic games to represent those qualities. Through worship, games, snacks, crafts, and other activities, the children will learn how commitment, focus, balance, strength, and endurance are part of living their lives for Christ. Gods Olympics has been created for use in an informal teaching and learning time. Activities designed for multiple ages of children use learning centers for crafts, games and snacks, while worship is crafted as a total group experience.
